1871-72

Suppl.

This Catalog Supplement for 1971-72 must be used in conjunction with the 1970-71 Graduate School Catalog. All degree requirements are listed in the latter catalog except for such changes that become effective for the 1971-72 academic year. For these changes, consult the department in which you are registered.

Only courses which will be offered in 1971-72 are listed. Where the 1970-71 catalog shows courses which are not listed in the supplement, it means that the courses are either starred for 1971-72 or have been dropped. In most cases, course descriptions will be found in the 1970-71 catalog.

Changes to be made in the front section of the catalog.

University Health Services

The Director and his staff are responsible for providing for the physical and emotional well-being of students. Payment of the infirmary fee, included in the tuition, entitles students to services available at the David A. Stoneman Infirmary and at the Psychological Counseling Center, located in Lemberg Hall. Except for limited day-care facilities, the Health Services and the use of the Infirmary are available to students only during the period in which the University is in regular academic session.

Prospective students planning to matriculate in the Graduate School are responsible for the submission of a Health Examination Report completed by their family or personal physician. In addition to information about previous health and details of the physical examination, evidence of immunization against smallpox and tetanus are required. If possible, protection against poliomyelitis is desirable. Since students may not register until these requirements have been satisfied, it is strongly urged that reports be submitted by July 1.

The Student Health Insurance Plan helps to defray expenses for a period of one year, commencing September 1, for care situations beyond the scope of the Health Services. A brochure outlining the details of the Plan as well as the services offered by the University Health Services is mailed to each student prior to registration. Students are urged to read this brochure carefully and keep it for reference. Whereas situations not covered within the Health Services or by an Insurance Plan are infrequent, an awareness of these possibilities will tend to lessen misunderstanding and disappointment. In such instances students or their parents will be responsible for expenses which are not covered by the University health plan or an associated insurance policy.

Within the limitations of the insurance program, fees of physicians who are not members of the Health Services staff, laboratories and hospitals will be processed for payment only when consultations, laboratory or x-ray studies or hospitalization have been authorized by the University Health Services in advance on a form provided for this purpose. The University is not responsible for off-campus medical and hospital care sought by students or their parents on their own initiative, or for outside care or consultation which has not been authorized previously by the Health Services. The only exception to this is in case of an emergency, or illnesses or injuries occurring while away from the University, when such prior authorization is not feasible.

Exceptions: The Infirmary Fee is not included in the tuition payments of the Special Student. The Special Student, may, however, subscribe separately for coverage by the University Health Services.

GRADUATE SCHOOL PLACEMENT OFFICE

Graduate students who will be seeking employment should register with the Graduate Placement Office located in Rabb Graduate Center, Room 115. Placement files are maintained for present and former graduate students.

Inquiries regarding part-time or full-time employment for graduate students should be addressed to this office.

Tuition Fee: The fees for tuition in the Graduate School for 1971-72 are as follows:

Full-time resident students: $2,900 per year, or $1,450 per semester.

Part-time resident students:

Per Semester	Per Year	Fraction Program of Study
$1,087.50	$2,175.00	Three-quarters
$ 725.00	$1,450.00	One-half
$ 362.50	$ 725.00	One-quarter

Special Students: $357.50 per course per semester.

Students Health Insurance Program: $90.00. Payment of the health insurance fee entitles the student to participate in the benefits of the health insurance program. The fee is payable at or before registration and no portion is refundable after the student has formally registered. All graduate students are required to have health insurance coverage. If they do not subscribe to the University's health insurance plan, they must present proof of outside coverage to the Graduate School Office on or before registration in the fall.

Exceptions: Special students registered for fractional programs are not required to have health insurance but may opt to take such coverage.

Dependent Coverage: Although the health services offered at Stoneman Infirmary are not extended to dependents of students, an optional family health insurance plan is available to married students for a fee of $354.00. Special students are not eligible for this plan.

SCHOLARSHIPS

Full scholarships in the value of $2,900 and partial scholarships are available.

Office of Student Employment

The Office of Student Employment assists students who need and desire part-time work. Students seeking part-time work should register with this office. New students will be registered only upon arrival on campus in the fall. Prior assignments cannot be made.

The on-campus, part-time student rate is $1.60-$2.20 an hour. Students can expect to earn from $200 to $400 a year.

BIOCHEMISTRY

Courses of Instruction

BIOCHEMISTRY 100a.

Introductory Biochemistry

Chemistry, reactions and metabolism of biologically important compounds. Formation and utilization of "energy-rich" compounds. Introduction to enzyme mechanisms. An attempt will be made to interrelate and compare basic biochemical and chemical processes.

Prerequisite: Chemistry 25a and b.

Messrs. Jencks and Abeles

BIOCHEMISTRY 101.

Advanced Biochemistry

BIOCHEMISTRY 201.

Physical Biochemistry

Mr. Timasheff and Staff

BIOCHEMISTRY 203a and b.

Biochemistry and Molecular Biology of Nucleic Acids

A study of the chemistry, biochemistry and physiological properties of nucleic acids. The second semester will deal with the mechanism of protein synthesis, cell physiology and virus infected cell physiology.

Prerequisites: Elementary biochemistry, physics and calculus.

Messrs. Freifelder, Grossman,
Murakami and Schleif

BIOCHEMISTRY 204b.

Physiological Chemistry

Chemistry and metabolism of blood, specialized glands and tissues, including endocrine secretions and vitamins.

Prerequisite: Biochemistry 100a or the equivalent. Mrs. Leeman and Mr. Loomis

BIOCHEMISTRY 207b.

Immunochemistry

An introduction to the basic concepts of immunobiology and immunochemistry. Mode and mechanism of antibody synthesis and of antigen-antibody interaction; application of immunochemical methods to the estimation and characterization of proteins, polysaccharides, enzymes and hormones. The laboratory work will give experience in basic immunochemical techniques in the form of individual research problems.

Prerequisite: Consent of the instructors.

Two lecture hours and one afternoon laboratory a week. 4 credits.

BIOLOGY

Courses of Instruction

BIOLOGY 101b. Comparative Physiology of Animals

An intensive comparison will be presented of the mechanisms which diverse organisms have evolved to deal successfully with similar environmental challenges. Similarities and dissimilarities in the processes operating to regulate metabolism reproduction, sensitivity and reactivity in animals will be studied.

Prerequisites: Biology 31b and 41a or the equivalent.

Three classroom and three laboratory hours a week. 5 credits.

Laboratory fee: $15. Mr. Olsen

BIOLOGY 103a. Cell Structure and Function

Molecular architecture of the living cell and its relationship to life processes. The generalized cell, the cell in division, and the specialized cell will be considered from the viewpoint of classical cytology and also in terms of current biochemical, optical, and electron-optical studies.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

Three classroom hours and three laboratory hours a week. 5 credits.

Laboratory fee: $15. Mr. Stephens

BIOLOGY 104b. Cell in Development and Heredity

A selected topic in cell biology will provide the focus for discussions of contemporary problems. Most of the extensive reading will be original research papers, and students will be expected to participate actively in the classroom.

Prerequisite: Biology 40aR or permission of the instructor.

Mr. Fulton

BIOLOGY 108a. Vertebrate Endocrinology Mr. Olsen

BIOLOGY 131b. Problems in Animal Morphogenesis

A seminar discussion of problems encountered in studies of animal development. current and older literature on designated topics will be evaluated.

Prerequisite: Biology 40aR or the equivalent.

Three classroom hours. Mr. Zwilling

BIOLOGY 140b. DNA Repair: Its Genetic and Evolutionary Aspects

A comprehensive review of DNA repair (photoreactivation and dark repair) emphasizing its place in biology. Topics included: relation of repair to the origin of life and early evolution of cells; repair considered as a gene stabilizing mechanism; role of ultraviolet light during evolution; natural selection for repair in contemporary life.

Prerequisites: Biology 30a, 31b, or the equivalent; or permission of instructor.

Mr. Kelner

BIOLOGY 141a. Physical Biology

Physical methods; treatment of experimental data; physical aspects of vision and hearing; introduction to radiobiology and theoretical biology; forces involved in biological events; structure and properties of membranes.

Prerequisite: Satisfactory grades in full year courses in biology, chemistry, mathematics and physics.

Three classroom hours. Mr. Epstein

BIOLOGY 200b. Advanced Biology

A series of intensive explorations of selected major areas of biology, each one about three weeks in length. This year the areas will be physiology and development. Mr. Fulton and Staff

BIOLOGY 240a. Photochemical Events in Photosynthesis
Mr. Avron

BIOLOGY 245a. Selected Topics in Plant Metabolism

A discussion of those areas of physiology and biochemistry to which plants lend themselves as experimental objects. Conspicuous examples are photosynthesis, photomorphogenesis, nitrogen fixation, and the biosynthesis of natural products such as anthocyanins, flavonoids, isoprenoids, phenols, terpenes, etc.

Three classroom hours a week. 2 credits. Mr. Gibbs

BIOLOGY 245b. Comparative Physiology and Biochemistry of Plants

See Biology 245a. Messrs. Klein and Schiff

BIOLOGY 250a. The Biochemistry and Molecular Genetics of Development

Pertinent original papers from the current literature will be presented by individual class members and by the instructors, and will be discussed and evaluated.

Three classroom hours a week. Messrs. Sussman and Halvorson

Courses in ResearchBIOLOGY 300a and b. Biological Research StaffBIOLOGY 400. Biophysics of Microorganisms Mr. EpsteinBIOLOGY 401. Genetics and Microbiology Mr. Kelner

ENGLISH 180a. Change and Continuity in Modern Literature

Readings in modern leading works drawn from representative European authors such as Camus, Thomas Mann, Dostoevsky, Kafka, Tolstoy, Beckett, and so on.

Mr. Rahv

ENGLISH 183b. Major Modern American Writers

A study of some of the durable work of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries by such writers as Emily Dickinson, Walt Whitman, Theodore Dreiser and Scott Fitzgerald.

Mr. Hindus

ENGLISH 184a. American Literature in the Twentieth Century

Readings in prose, poetry, and the drama.

Mr. Rahv

ENGLISH 186a. Immigrant Jewish Backgrounds and Modern American Literature

An inquiry into the East European origins of the subject matter, style, and ethos of a dozen writers of different generations--from Abraham Cahan in the 1890's to Saul Bellow today.

Mr. Hindus

ENGLISH 188a. Literature and Linguistics

Principles of contemporary linguistics will be applied to the study of style and narration in a number of literary texts. Special attention will be paid to the work of Roman Jakobson and European Structuralists.

Mr. Swiggart

ENGLISH 191a. Introduction to Linguistics

This course focuses on the outstanding questions which an adequate theory of natural language must answer and considers in some detail current attempts to answer them. It will, in passing, touch upon the relevance of the emerging theory to questions of philosophical, psychological, biological and literary import.

Mr. Jackendoff

ENGLISH 192b. History of the English Language

An introductory course designed for students with no previous training in linguistics or knowledge of the earlier stages of the language.

Mr. Blyth

ENGLISH 196a. Semantics and Linguistics

This course will explore the semantic structure of language in terms of current linguistic theory.

Prerequisite: English 191a or 191b.

Mr. Jackendoff

ENGLISH 196b. Syntactic Investigations in an Unfamiliar Language

In this course the student will be confronted with a native speaker of an unfamiliar language (i.e., neither English nor Yiddish). The purpose of the course will be to figure out what it is that the speaker knows when he knows the language.

Mr. Jackendoff

LITERARY STUDIES:

Classics, Comparative Literature, French, German, Russian and Spanish

OBJECTIVES

The joint program of literary studies will accept students who declare themselves for the Ph.D. degree in the areas listed below. Interdisciplinary in design, the program aims to train literary scholars and teachers whose professional capabilities will be broader than their individual specialities. Students will have the opportunity to study aesthetic theory, methodology, literature, and the sister arts. A small and carefully selected student body will work closely with the faculty of the program and with one another in a core curriculum before specializing. Each student is encouraged to plan an individual program of studies within his interests. The program offers a variety of means for students to augment their specialities by study in related areas.

ADMISSION

The general requirements for admission to the Graduate School, given in an earlier section of this catalog, apply to candidates for admission to this program. With his application, each applicant should submit at least one college-level essay on a literary subject (which may be written in English) as a sample of his work.

FACULTY

Committee:

Professor Edward Engelberg, Chairman (Comparative Literature)
Professor James E. Duffy (Spanish)
Professor Murray Sachs (French)
Professor Harry Zohn (German)
Associate Professor David Wiesen (Classics)
Assistant Professor Robert Szulkin (Russian)

In addition, faculty members of the Departments of Romance Languages and Comparative Literature, Germanic and Slavic Languages, Classics, and English and American Literature are associated with this program.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTSDoctor of Philosophy

Program of Study. Individual programs of study will be arranged between the student and his advisor. However, all students will be required to take a one year seminar in History and Theory of Literary Criticism, as well as a minimum of three half-courses in the "100" range.

Residence Requirement. The minimum residence requirement is two years of full-time study beyond the bachelor's degree.

Language Requirements. A competence in two foreign languages other than those of the student's major field will be required of all students in all areas. Details of the language requirements for each area may be obtained by writing to the Chairman of the Joint Program of Literary Studies.

Qualifying Examination. During the spring semester of the first year of residence, each student will take a written and oral qualifying examination, permitting him to demonstrate his ability to analyze literary texts.

General Examinations. Before admission to candidacy, each student will demonstrate in written and oral examinations his knowledge of general literary theory and periods and areas chosen and determined by the student's interests. Such examinations will generally be taken at the end of the second year.

Admission to Candidacy. When the student has satisfied the residence requirement and the language requirements and has successfully completed his General Examinations, he will be admitted to candidacy for the Ph. D. degree. Before beginning work on a dissertation, the student will first submit a dissertation prospectus of his proposal to a committee. On approval of the prospectus, a permanent committee with a chairman will be formed to direct the dissertation.

Dissertation and Defense. The dissertation must be found acceptable by a minimum of three readers prior to the defense. Once accepted, the dissertation will then be formally defended at an oral examination before a faculty committee which includes at least one outside reader.

Lectures and discussions on the ancient Mediterranean as a creative cultural center with a virtually world-wide communications capability. The results of marine archaeology, outside influences on the Mediterranean and the emerging pattern of cultural diffusion that stimulated all high civilizations, are among the themes of the course.

In 1971-72 the First Millennium B.C. will be covered. Students may repeat Mediterranean Studies 101 for credit since the subject matter will change completely from year to year in a four year cycle.

Mr. Gordon

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES 112. The Archaeology of the East Mediterranean
Mr. Todd

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES 117. Archaeology of Mesopotamia and Iran
The Neolithic and Bronze Ages. Mr. Todd

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES 123. Biblical Texts Pertaining to the Monarchy

The first semester will be an intensive linguistic analysis of selected texts. The second semester will stress the historic investigation of texts dealing with problems on which there is new extrabiblical evidence. Either semester may be taken for credit.

Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

Mr. Newby, 1st Semester
Mr. Gordon, 2nd Semester

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES 125. Classical Arabic Texts

This course is designed to induct the student into the use of Classical Arabic texts for historical studies.

Open to students beginning Arabic but also recommended for those with some previous knowledge of the language who need a methodical review. The readings will vary from year to year so that the course may be taken twice for credit.

Mr. Newby

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES 130. Elementary Akkadian Mr. Lacheman

MEDITERRANEAN STUDIES 136. Hittite

Grammar and interpretations of ritual texts.

Prerequisite: The student must have taken or take concurrently Mediterranean Studies 130.

SOCIOLOGY

Courses of Instruction

SOCIOLOGY 102a. Social Psychiatry Mr. Schwartz

SOCIOLOGY 104a. Sociology of Education

An exploration of education institutions with an eye to developing alternative models and programs. Readings will range from Whitehead, Dewey, Veblen through contemporary sources. Mr. Stein

SOCIOLOGY 106a and b. Sociology of Literature Mr. Stein

SOCIOLOGY 107a and b. Issues in Social Psychiatry

Selected contemporary social psychological and psychiatric theories of the self will be compared to the Traditional approach of Yoga. Mr. Rosenberg

SOCIOLOGY 109a. Inequality and Social Policy

The aims of the course will be to acquaint the student with utopian writings and theories concerning equality; the distribution of resources in the United States including income, assets, basic services, opportunities for education and social mobility, opportunities for participation in decision-making, and status; cross-national comparisons of the distribution of these resources; governmental, union and other efforts to reduce inequalities, and radical critiques of these efforts; and for the student to develop an idea of the nature of the stratification system in which he or she would want to live and to consider strategies for arriving at such a system. Miss Roby

SOCIOLOGY 110b. Sociology of Knowledge Mr. Wolff

SOCIOLOGY 113b. Social Ecology of the Urban Environment

The course will examine the classical school of urban sociology as it relates to the modern city. The concepts of social ecology are examined and revised in terms of urban sociological research. Mr. Wallace

SOCIOLOGY 114a. Complex Organizations

Development, structure, and dynamics of complex organizations; the organizational environment of the individual and the social environment of the organization; organizational conflict and change. Student research to be presented in class.

Enrollment limited to fifteen students. Miss Patterson

SOCIOLOGY 115a. The Evolution of Human Social Organization

The course is concerned principally with the development of social stratification and the state and offers an analysis of the factors that have brought about this development. The discussions will also deal with the differences between the institutions (and their effect on human living) that exist in primitive human communities and those that exist in class society. Mr. Jean

(more)

SOCIOLOGY 119a and b. Institutions of a More Humane Society

Students will be expected to draft a working paper in which problems of an institution are presented, and consideration of how the institution might be reorganized in a more humane fashion.

Issues common to all such analyses will be important, as will the attempt to work toward a coherent political analysis of present problems and possible alternative structures.

Limited enrollment.

Mr. Fellman

SOCIOLOGY 120a and b. The Sociology of Underdevelopment

The course will discuss the phenomenon of the underdevelopment of the Third World. The perspective is historical. Topics will include the origins of underdevelopment; the nature of relations between developed and underdeveloped countries; the internal economic, social and political structure of Third World societies; and a critical evaluation of different strategies of development.

The first term will cover the era of Modern Colonialism, and the second the contemporary neo-colonial period. First term not a prerequisite for the second.

Mr. Jean

SOCIOLOGY 122a. Sociology of Power

Mr. Boime

SOCIOLOGY 130a. The Family

Structure and dynamics of the American family. Historical and cross-cultural perspectives. The role of women and children in society. Relationship of the family to economic and political institutions. Alternative models for family life including communes.

Mrs. Kanter

SOCIOLOGY 141a. Marx and Freud

The course will stress Marxian and Freudian treatments of human nature, human potential, social stability, conflict, change, consciousness, the relationship between family and social process, social class and stratification. Topics of contemporary importance will be reviewed in the light of both traditions. Attempts to combine the two approaches will be examined. Lecture, discussion, papers, etc., with special emphasis on making discussion sections effective for the entire range of people in them.

Messrs. Fellman and Ross

SOCIOLOGY 141b. Advanced Seminar on Marx and Freud

Continuation of Sociology 141a on an advanced level, for more intensive study of the issues raised there. Limited enrollment.

Messrs. Fellman and Ross

SOCIOLOGY 145b. Sociology of Life Styles II

An analysis of changes in sexual roles and identities taking place in American society, especially within the "counter-culture" of the young. The course will focus on male identity and consider "sexual politics," male bonding, and changes in the nuclear family.

Mr. Derber

SOCIOLOGY 151b. Environmental Research

A research methods course designed to teach through class and individual research projects. Methods include those relevant to a specific research problem. Research methods include participant observation, social unit sampling, sound recording, photography, depth and structured interviews, questionnaires and secondary data sources.

Mr. Walter

SOCIOLOGY 152a. Sociology of the Generations

An investigation of the "counter-culture" developing among contemporary youth, with particular concern for the political implications of the Cultural Revolution.

Mr. Derber

SOCIOLOGY 200a. Classical Sociological Theory Mr. Boime

SOCIOLOGY 203a and b. Field Methods in Sociological Research Mr. Fisher

SOCIOLOGY 204a. Sociology and History Mr. Wolff

SOCIOLOGY 207a. Issues in Higher Education Seminar

Comparative systems of higher education; crisis and change in the university; higher education as a social selection mechanism; specific problem areas to be discussed in depth will be determined by student interest and research.

Miss Patterson

SOCIOLOGY 208b. Seminar on Counter Education

The course will review experiments in alternate education ranging from Black Mountain through anti-universities and free universities of the last few years. We will try to work with the class as a laboratory and each student in it will deal with particular kinds of experimentation.

Mr. Stein

SOCIOLOGY 209a. Seminar on Contemporary American Working Class

A review of relevant materials.

Mr. Ross

SOCIOLOGY 216a. Topics in Modern Sociological Theory

Intensive examination of selected trends in contemporary sociological theorizing.
